

Sophisticake is committed to protecting your privacy. Sophisticake does not make use of a web site visitor's IP address, or other session information that is automatically captured by its web server, for any purpose other than system administration and to provide statistics that are used to evaluate use of the site.

Only session cookies are used. These are necessary for system administration purposes and are deleted when a visit to the site is terminated. The pages that are visited are tracked for analysis purposes only and the information is not used to make any assumptions about a visitor's particular interests.

Use of this site does not require a visitor to disclose personal information unless they choose to give it. At any point where the visitor is requested to supply personal data an explanation will be given of how this information may be used and to whom it may be disclosed. Please note that this privacy policy does not cover the privacy practices of other websites to which there are links from this site.